DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed on 7/23/09 has been entered and the remarks therein have been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Harada et al. '466 or UK Patent Application '045 in view of Leining '150.

Harada et al. '466 discloses the percussion drill hammer as claimed comprising a hammer housing 1, 15, a handle device surrounding at least a portion of the housing and including a handle 2, 12, and a guide device including rolling elements 4 effectively "fastened" between the hammer housing and the handle device located laterally on the housing, as broadly claimed, and effecting a spring characteristic transverse to a working direction, wherein the guide device allows relatively uninhibited movement of the handle relative to the housing in a working direction and inhibits lateral and rotational movement between the handle and housing, as broadly claimed.

UK Patent Application '045 discloses the percussion drill hammer as claimed comprising a hammer housing 1,3, a handle device including a handle 2 with guide portions 2a which overlap an outer surface of the housing portion at 3, and a guide device including rolling elements 7 effective between the hammer housing and the handle device in an intermediate space and located laterally on the housing and movable along "track" 2b of the handle device, as broadly claimed, and effecting a spring characteristic transverse to a working direction, wherein the guide device allows relatively uninhibited movement of the handle relative to the housing in a working direction and inhibits lateral and rotational movement between the handle and housing, as broadly claimed.

Harada et al. '466 and UK Patent Application '045 lack the specifically claimed rolling elements and "tracks". Leining '150 discloses a related reciprocating tool 89 comprising a carriage guided reciprocably upon a tool base, and a guide device including rolling members 28, 30 in cooperating tracks between the tool and base, in the shape of prisms (Note: Figs. 3 and 4) and mounted on axles. In view of the teachings of Leining '150, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the devices of Harada et al. '466 or UK Patent Application '045 with the specifically claimed rolling elements and tracks for the guide arrangement in order to more effectively guide the elements.

Response to Arguments
